

6th April 2020

A blessed and prayerful Holy Week to you all.

As I've noted in previous e-mails the first three days of Holy Week see us continue with our regular services of Morning and Evening Prayer but with the addition of Stations of the Cross at 7.00pm. This will take the form of a meditative journey with Jesus from his encounter with Pontius Pilate to his body being laid in the tomb. 14 stations which enable us to focus on the events of Our Lord's last earthly journey in a way which will, hopefully, enable us to engage in a meaningful way with those terrible events some two thousand years ago.

I shall be using a different meditation each evening but the same images, which I shall arrange for people to see as the meditation progresses.

I was also wondering if anyone might be interested in an online Bible Study. If you are on Zoom or can download it onto your computer, laptop, tablet or smartphone, it may be a good and profitable way of spending some time. I have already used Zoom to have some conference call type meetings. It would mean me setting up a meeting time then sending the log-in details to whomever wants to join in, then at the appropriate time you sign in and there we all are on the screen! Let me know what you think.
