Starting with the funny today, attached is an interesting view of what a Zoom meeting would have been like between Jesus and his disciples. Sent by Julia!

I've only been in on a few Zoom meetings personally and they can be jolly hard work. The participants have to be quite disciplined, making sure not to speak over each other and knowing when it's their turn to talk. It's no wonder that the experts are saying that these meetings can be tiring and a little stressful, but I think that it depends on what you are trying to achieve in them. If the meeting is about complicated detailed or technical things, I can see how that would be hard. However, if it's simply to have a coffee and chat then it needn't be harmful to our health, quite the opposite in fact.

I hope that when my virtual coffee morning is arranged people with the necessary tech. will join me. If it all gets too much it only takes one click to get rid of me!

Tom.

PS. Next week I shall (technically) be on holiday, so I shall not be sending out the daily e-pistles. This will probably be a great relief to many but make the most of it as they will resume the following week! However, there will still be morning and evening prayer, from home, as I would normally do that anyway! There will be one added extra though. On Thursday 21st May there will be a Mass at 12 Noon for Ascension Day, our feast of Title (or one of them as we also have All Saints!). I hope you will be able to join me for that, or at least view it later in the day on the Website or Facebook.
